Your Excellency,

We have been informed by reports that Nelson Curinir's body was found, observed, and indentified by his family members in Chile. We also discovered that the reason he was killed was because of the way he believed the government should be controlled. The people who killed him will not pay for this crime because of 1978 Amnesty Law.

We believe that today all people, all over the world should have human rights and they should not be violated. Since the coming of the 500th anniversary of Columbus' landing in the Americas, we believe we should bring forth our concerns about human rights and how they are violated. We are concerned about issues like the one concerning Nelson Curinir and we are always concerned about the past, present, and future. We would appreciate it if you took some time and investigated this matter.

Sincerely,

Michael Herrera
Gilroy CA. USA.

Your Excellency,

Recent reports indicate that Nelson Curinio's body was found and then later identified by his family in Chile. Evidence leads us to believe that he may have been killed because of his political beliefs. Because of a law made in 1978 the killers of this man will not pay for their crime.

Amnesty International believes that it is time for all countries to establish human rights that fully protect the people. This being the year of the 500th anniversary of Columbus' landing in the Americas, we think that it is a perfect time to highlight concerns about human rights violations. Cases like Nelson Curinio are the types of human rights violations that Amnesty International is concerned about I would like to see the perpetrators brought to justice.

The Americas are now entering the 21st century we would very much like to see some if not all of the cases like this one investigated by your administration. With regards to Nelson Curinio, please investigate his murder, in order to insure that such abuses cease to occur in years to come

Sincerely,
Jeremiah Ashen
